

THE HEALING POWER OF MUSIC

Music is Therapeutic for Many Alzheimer's Patients. Much has been written about how beneficial music is for people with Alzheimer's.

A very touching story is portrayed in an interview with Lady Gaga about her recent interactions with Tony Bennett. The first is with Stephen Colbert while the second is a more comprehensive interview that appeared on 60 Minutes.

They have sung together for the past number of years, but he is in the late stages of Alzheimer's.

He is largely non-communicative, but comes to life on stage singing duets with Lady Gaga.

Both the interview and performance are a great illustration of how the person you know is still in there no matter how far along they may be.

